

WAR NEWS.

Roberts Suffers Reverse.

Winnipeg, July 13, '00.

London: The latest news from Lord Roberts which tells of a fresh disaster to the British troops is bitter disappointment to those who considered the war practically over. His despatch is dated from Pretoria, July 12th, and reads as follows: "Enemy having failed in their attack upon the right rear as mentioned in my telegram of July 9th, made a determined attack up right flank yesterday and I regret to say succeeded in capturing Ntala's Nek, which was garrisoned by a squadron of Scots Greys with two guns, a battery of royal artillery and five companies of the Lincolnshire regiment. Enemy attacked in superior numbers at dawn and seizing the hills commanding the Nek, they brought heavy gun fire to bear upon the small garrison. Ntala's Nek is about 18 miles from here near where the road crossed Crocodile river. It was held by us in order to maintain the road and telegraphic communication with Rustenburg. The fighting lasted during the day. Before reinforcements reached the spot the garrison had been overpowered and the bulk of the Britishers captured. The casualties were heavy.

Gen. Roberts is ill but recovering.

War in China.

Uncertainty about Peking.

London, Friday: A terrible veil of silence enshrouds Peking and there is nobody who does not believe that the worst has happened. It is taken for granted that all the powers have exhausted every means to get direct news from the legations and the fact that their efforts have been in vain leaves this the only interpretation.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Mail says that the following story regarding the position at Peking is evidently from Chinese official sources. "The two remaining legations, British and Russian, were attacked on July 6th, Prince Tuan being in command. The attackers were divided and Tuan commanded the centre. The right wing was led by Prince Tsai Yin and the left wing by Prince Yia Lin. The reserves were under the command of Prince Tsin Yu. The attack commenced with artillery fighting, which was severe and lasted until 7 o'clock in the morning, at which time both legations were destroyed and all foreigners were dead. The streets around the legations were full of bodies, both of foreigners and Chinese. Upon hearing of the attack Prince Ching and General Wang Wen Shu went to the assistance of the foreigners, but were outnumbered and defeated. Both Ching and Wang Wen Shu were killed. Two foreigners are said to have escaped through the gates, one with a heavy sword wound in the head. Prince Tuan, in celebration of the victory, distributed 100,000 taels and huge quantities of loot to the Boxers."

Situation at Tien Tsin.

London, July 12th: The admiral has received the following despatch from Admiral Seymour: "Tien Tsin, July 7th: The Chinese still continue fighting after shelling the settlements. They are extending their lines along the La Tai canal to the northwest and are appearing in greater force west of the city. Yesterday we bombarded the city and suburbs, which stopped the Chinese gun fire for some time. The French settlement station is most subject to attack. To-day there was another bombardment. I am steadily getting up more guns. Ten thousand troops are now here. More are required and both Russian and Japanese troops are expected.

Shanghai, July 12th: Peking advices, dated July 7th, received from Chinese sources by Viceroy Fulkien say that General Neih with nine thousand men reached there by northeast detour from Luai and fought Prince Tuan's troops losing 2,500 men. General Neih reported as being friendly to allies. There are persistent rumors that General Lu and Prince Ching are protecting the foreigners at Peking.

Two intoxicated half-breeds, Eugene Bruno and Louis Lane, both of whom are familiar figures in police court circles, were arrested Wednesday night in the bush not far from the residence of Dr. Braithwaite, while indulging in a sanguinary and protracted fist encounter. The next morning they were brought before the bench and fined. The west end has for some time now been the unwilling home of night prowlers and peace disturbers of all kinds. With a view to improving the condition of affairs in this regard, the council intend having all streets between Jasper avenue and the river cut out and brushed.

La Banque Jacques Cartier has passed out of existence, having been incorporated in a new concern to be known as the Provincial Bank of Canada. The local branch here was finally closed this week and the inside fixtures have been removed for shipment east. All deposits notwithstanding have been turned over to the Merchants Bank. It is understood that the bank's business here will to some extent be replaced by a new company, lately organized, which will do business under the name of the Provident Trust &amp; Loan Co., with head office at Edmonton. J. E. Laurencelle, late manager of the Banque Jacques Cartier's branch here, leaves next week for the east. He intends to return in about six weeks.

THE "STAR" AND BINDER TWINE.

The Montreal Star was never more happy in its choice of a head line than when it used the words: "Banking on Credulity" over a recent editorial, in which it touched on the question of duties on barbed wire, binder twine and coal oil. The occasion of its remarks was an address delivered at a farmers' picnic in Prince Edward County, Ont., by the managing editor of the Bulletin. In the course of its remarks the Star says:

"To present binder twine and coal oil as examples of the benefits conferred upon the farmers by the Fielding tariff is to presume, tremendously, upon the credulity of the Prince Edward County farmer. Every farmer in his audience knew the price of both binder twine and coal oil had risen since the liberal exemption power and commenced to tamper with the tariff."

If the foregoing extract has any meaning it is that the abolition of the tariff on binder twine and the reduction in the duty on coal oil have increased the price of these articles to the consumer. In making that assertion the Star is certainly banking on (supposed) credulity on the part of the farmers of Canada. When the duties were increased on spirits and tobacco it was at once charged that the government had increased the price of these articles. Whether the increased duty was followed by an actual increase in price or not (that being a matter subject to the influence of the ordinary currents of trade) it may be freely admitted that the increase in the duties tended to increase the price to the consumer. But when the Star expects its readers to believe that a reduction of the duty, has exactly the same effect as an increase, it is banking on a larger measure of credulity than is possessed by the ordinary Canadian farmer, in Prince Edward County or elsewhere.

That binder twine, barbed wire and coal oil have risen in price notwithstanding the reduction and abolition of the duties on these articles is a fact that is to be approved or deplored according to the point of view. The rise or fall of the world's market prices is something that is not under the control of governments, and it is only conservative governments in Canada who ever claimed such control. How far they were from making their claims good in 94 and 95 when the prices of farm produce were at their most farmers will remember. If the conservatives could then have formed a tariff to raise the price of farm produce why did they not do it. The liberal government never claimed—no sensible set of men ever did claim—that by reducing or increasing the tariff on any article of common world supply the world price would be affected. The question is not, have certain articles increased in price? It is: Have these articles increased in price in Canada out of due proportion to the prices elsewhere? If they have then we may look in tariff adjustment for the cause. The complaint against the former higher tariff was not that the price was high or low. It was that we were paying out of proportion to the prices in other countries—forced to do so by the exactions of the tariff.

The tariff, whether high or low does not make the price of any article high or low. It simply adds the duty to the price; and in the case of duties levied according to value—by far the largest class—the higher the price the greater the amount of duty, or the greater the extra amount which the consumer has to pay because of the duty.

The duty on binder twine was 12-1-2 per cent. That on every $100 worth of twine imported $12-1-2 duty had to be paid. If twine was $90 per 100 pounds in the States the duty on 100 pounds would be $12. But if twine were $12 per 100 pounds in the States the duty on 100 pounds would be $15.50. While the Star has been calling down the wrath of the farmers on the heads of the government for having taken the duty off binder twine (for that is how they have "tampered" with the tariff on that article), by reason of the increase of the price the abolition of the duty has saved the farmers nearly twice as much as was expected when the reduction was made. But the Star banks on the credulity of the farmers, as not knowing that.

An easy way to reach the bottom of the Star's argument that the "tampering" of the government with the tariff on binder twine has increased the price of that article is to figure on what would have occurred had the tariff not been tampered with—that is had the 12-1-2 per cent duty remained, as the Star would have approved. Would the rise in price of the world's supply of manilla occasioned by the Philippine war have been prevented? Assuredly not. Even the Star would not ask the most credulous of its readers to believe that. Then if the retention of the duty would not have prevented the rise in price, the farmers of Canada would simply have had to pay the price they have paid and 12-1-2 per cent more. The difference to the farmers on the twine last year resulting from the removal of the duty was $102,300. This is not a matter of argument, it is a matter of fact, as proven by the customs returns; and the Star will not bank on any one's credulity sufficiently to deny it.

But this was not the whole of the saving to the farmer. On any article of home manufacture the price is generally equal to the outside price of the like article, with the duty added. Canada manufactures a considerable amount of binder twine. Possibly as much as she imports. Now that there is no duty, the home article must be sold at the same price as the imported article which pays no duty. So that the home manufactured twine as they did of the imported article the saving to them by the reduction of the duty last year was not $102,300, but $204,600. In other words instead of $102,300 being divided up amongst the manufacturers of binder twine, as the Star would have it, it was divided up amongst the farmers.

For whom is the Star talking when it tries to make the farmers believe that they have been injured by the removal of the duty on binder twine? Not for the farmer, surely, for with the removal of the duty the golden days are gone, and that little 12-1-2 per cent protection friends attain power—when the farmer's friends vote. Truly the Star is "Banking on Credulity," and in no stinted measure when it instances the removal of the duty on binder twine as a grievance of the farmers against the present tariff.

A SUGAR COMBINE.

The following editorial extract from the Ottawa Citizen, (conservative), conveys information as to an annoying fact and its cause:

Housekeepers who have had occasion to buy sugar the past few days have had to pay from one-half to one cent per pound more for it than ten days ago. If it is any comfort for them to know it, the reason they are paying more is because Traveler and Arbuckle have decided to bury their differences and transfer millions from the pockets of the people to those of the trusts.

One cent a pound advance upon the 233,000,000 pounds of sugar and its products entered for consumption in Canada, means an annual tax of $2,330,000 on the people, or slightly more than forty-five cents upon every man, woman and child in the land, or $1.25 for every family of five.

It is annoying to know the fact and realize that we have no redress. We have even the consolation that the tax is going into the treasury of the country—it's going into the pockets of those who have already amassed millions by sugar profits and don't need our dollars.

And, further, we have no guarantee that sugar will not be advanced another six-pennies of a cent a pound in the next six weeks.

It will naturally strike anyone who reads the Citizen to enquire why no attack is made in this connection on the tariff policy of the government. Attacks, bitter and persistent, have been made on the coal oil, binder twine and barbed wire features of the tariff, avowedly because the prices of these articles to the consumer have risen since the tariff on them was reduced or abolished. Then why not make an increase in the price of the much more important article of sugar—the result of a foreign combine—also the basis of an attack. This surely is a case where tariff tinkering could be condemned with force and effect.

The difference between the case of the three articles mentioned and sugar is that on them the tariff was reduced or abolished while the sugar duties remain about as they were in '96. When the government cuts down the duty and the price of the article rises the government has committed a grievous offence against the consumer and the reduction or abolition of the duty is held to have been the direct cause of the increase in price. But when no effort has been made by alterations in the tariff to reduce the cost to the consumer, as in the case of sugar, the rise in price is regrettable, but unavoidable, and no blame attaches to any one—even the unspeakable grit government. The attitude expressed by this and other editors of the Citizen is: Leave the tariff alone and we find no fault. But reduce it and we will mis-state conditions and distort facts so as to discredit such reduction as far as possible in the public mind.

THE KING MAKER.

The order-in-council displacing Hon. T. R. McInnis, as governor of British Columbia, does not place that action in any very favorable light. It was supposed that grave infractions of the constitution on the part of the ex-lieutenant-governor would be given as the cause of dismissal, but instead is merely the general allegation that his "official conduct has been subversive of the principles of responsible government." This will hardly be accepted as satisfactory either by the friends of Mr. McInnis or of constitutional usage and law. If the allegation of the order-in-council is correct instances should be given; for the removal of a lieutenant-governor is a sufficiently grave departure from the ordinary course to require equally grave and specific justification. The allegation in the beginning of the order-in-council that Mr. McInnis in dismissing his ministers has not been approved by the people of the province is so far wide of the fact as to throw discredit on the only other statement. Not one of the dismissed ministers was re-elected; so that there could not have been a stronger endorsement of the action of the governor in dismissing them than has been given by the people of the province.

When a reason for the dismissal of the lieutenant-governor is found in the expression of the will of the people or in specific infractions of the constitution it must be looked for elsewhere. Clearly it is in response to the demand of the Turner clique in British Columbia and their eastern allies represented by the "Globe." Clearly it is in defence of every argument which the liberal party opposed to the dismissal of Lieutenant-Governor Letellier, of Quebec, and the liberals of British Columbia are making. It is clear that it was not in response to any demand made by them, or in accord with their ideas.

In view of all the circumstances it is a fair proposition that honest government and constitutional usage have more to fear from the dictation of the "liberal" Globe and its conservative allies in British Columbia than it ever had from even Joe Martin, much less from Governor McInnis. With the principles established that Lieutenant-governors are no longer representatives of the authority of the crown—that is of the highest interests of the whole people—but the puppets of speculative and corrupt business-political alliances, the ordinary honest taxpayer and voter may very well question where he is at.

This dismissal of Lieutenant-Governor McInnis is a very up-to-date instance of the political tactics of the Globe and its allies. On the strength of its reputation as the paper of Geo. Brown, it bolsters the liberals as their party organ, but whenever the special interests, which it is published to advance demand, it does not hesitate to unite with the opposite party to throw down liberal principles. This was its course on the Crow's Nest deal; on the Kettle River Valley railway, on the elevator monopoly and on the taxation of C. P. R. lands, not to mention questions of tariff reduction or many other matters, and this is its course when it is necessary to clear the field for the further exploration of the vast natural riches of British Columbia for the benefit of its friends.

DISMISSAL OF MCINNIS.

The following is a copy of the order in-council dismissing Lieutenant-Governor McInnis as presented to the House of Commons:

"On a memorandum, dated 20th June, 1900, from the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, stating that the action of the Lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, in dismissing his ministers, has not been approved by the people of that province, and further, that in view of recent events in the said province of British Columbia it is evident that the government of that province cannot be successfully carried on in the manner contemplated by the constitution under the administration of the present Lieutenant-governor, His Honor Thomas R. McInnis, whose official conduct has been subversive of the principles of responsible government.

"The right hon. the premier submits that, therefore, Mr. McInnis' usefulness as Lieutenant-governor of British Columbia is gone, and he recommends that Mr. McInnis be removed from the said office, and that the cause be assigned for such removal under the provisions of section 59 of the British North America act shall be the matters set forth in this minute."

AN ANTI-TRUST POEM.

A call to arms against the political tyranny of the Western Railway Trust.

Flame out ye plamen of the West
In anger just and bold;

Let whining cravens shirk the test
And trembling aid withhold.

The King that forges freemen's chains
Shall perish in a night;

Blind greed shall learn that justice
Reigns, and might is born of Right.

Like lightning from the throne of God,
Whose path no eye can see,—

Like snowflakes carpeting the sod,
Swiftly and silently,—

So let the white-winged ballots fall
And crush the false King down,

And justice, governing for all,
Shall wear the victor's crown.

GEO. E. WINKLER.
Greenwood, B. C.

EMPEROR WILLIAM DEMANDS VENGEANCE

Addressing the detachment of German marines which sailed from Wilhelmshaven for China on the 2nd, Emperor William made a remarkable speech, during which he notified the world of Germany's intention to avenge the murder of Baron Von Ketteler, the late minister of Germany at Peking, and the missionaries, and to dictate terms to the Chinese from the palace at Peking.

According to the Lokai Anzeiger, his Majesty spoke as follows: "The German flag has been insulted and the German Empire treated with contempt. This demands exemplary punishment and vengeance. Events have moved with frightful rapidity, and have become profoundly grave, and still graver. Since I called you to arms, what I hoped to effect with the help of the marine infantry has now become a difficult task, which can only be fulfilled with 'the help of the married ranks of all civilized States. I will not rest until the German flag, joined to those of the other powers, floats triumphantly over China's flag, and until it has been planted on the walls of Peking, to dictate peace to the Chinese. You will have to maintain good comradeship with all the other troops whom you will come in contact with over yonder. Russian, British and French, all alike, are fighting for one common cause—for civilization. We must bear in mind, too, something higher, namely, our religion and the defense and protection of our brothers out there, some of whom stake their lives for the Savior. The flag which here floats above you goes under fire for the first time. See that you bring them back to me clean and stainless, and without a spot. My thanks and my prayers and my solicitude go with you."

CANADA NORTHERN EXTENSION.

Battleford Herald:—An agent of Mackenzie & Mann was at Battleford recently engaging men and teams to work on the Canadian Northern railway. He said the road will cross the South Saskatchewan in the neighborhood of Battleford, and the North branch near Henrietta, thence west, passing south of Round Hill. This will bring the road a good deal south of the line laid down on the map issued last year, which runs largely through an impracticable country, and consequently nearer to Battleford. He also said if the firm could get men and teams enough they would build to the Saskatchewan this fall.

CROSSING THE ROCKIES ON FOOT.

Win. Inkster, of Edmonton, who is now ill at the Good Samaritan hospital, is one of the few white men who have crossed the Rockies alone and without pack animals. Jimmy Jock, well known to Cariboo and Alberta men, was the first to cross eastward alone. Remaining behind his companions on the Columbia river, he started over the hills alone, and after suffering incredible hardships from want of food, and tailsmen detours to avoid the camps of treacherous Blackfoot Indians, he one day staggered a gaunt spectre into the H. B. company post at what we think was the Jasper House in the Yellow Head pass.

William Inkster did not come by the Edmonton route, as stated in a local paper. He left Edmonton and with his rifle started overland across the Rockies. He followed no special trail, because no one ever came that way to our knowledge.

The first we heard of him was when he struck Teslin lake about 20 miles below the village. He followed the lake shore until he came to Teslin where the Stikine men were building boats. In a few days he had a suitable craft rigged out, and sailed away for Dawson weeks and even months ahead of others, arriving in the city sometime in August. This goes to show what a man used to the "horror" yards out of the Edmonton route, which was an infinitely easier trail for gold seekers with loads than the one followed by Inkster.

That he was not only careful of his ammunition and not wasteful of game, is shown by the fact that when within two miles of Teslin lake, he had an opportunity of shooting a moose, but would not do so as he did not know how far the lake was away, and did not want to waste the cartridges.

His long trip shows fully that a man with a rifle and a blanket and the simplest cooking utensils can travel thousands of miles over and through an unknown country, crossing the greatest range of mountains on the continent on his way and find quite well on the game he can shoot provided he is a man used to that kind of life. No trail, however, had him any special "horrors" for men like that—Yukon Sun.

HOW NOME GOLD IS FOUND

The gold in the Nome region has so far all been obtained from placer deposits, which can be conveniently grouped as gulch placers, bar placers, bench placers, tundra placers, and beach placers. During last season only those of the gulches and beach have been important gold producers. No facilities were available for exploring the tundra deposits, and the gulches have not as yet been investigated.

The coarse gold, as far as present developments show, is largely confined to the creeks and gulch diggings, ranging from the size of a pin head to nuggets weighing several ounces. Two have been found on Anvil Creek weighing 20 to 25 ounces, worth from $300 to $400. This of this gulch gold is about the size of No. 3 shot, while nuggets from one-half to one ounce are not uncommon. It is probable that much of the fine gold is lost by the more or less primitive method of extraction now in use.

The gold is usually rounded and of a smooth polished, i. e., having a waterworn character. In color it is rather dull and somewhat resembles tarnished brass. The nuggets are round and subangular, but seldom flat. Small vitreous quartz masses are not unfrequently found attached to the nuggets.

The creek gold usually occurs on or very near bed rock, under a thickness of five to eight feet of gravel. In the diggings the pay streak is of varying thickness, but the gravel usually carries some gold, or at least gold color, from the surface down. The flood plain, or gravel deposits of the stream, in or beneath which the gold occurs, measured from rim rock to rim rock, varies from twenty to several hundred feet in width on different creeks.

A cross section of the gravels at any given point would show the gold not evenly distributed, but more or less gathered into zones. This pay streak usually trends parallel with the creek valley, and simply marks an earlier channel of the creek, when the gold was laid down in its bed. It is not necessarily continuous, but often occurs in detached pockets, which are sometimes very rich.—Mining and Metallurgical Journal.

BEAVER LAKE.

The settlers of Beaver lake and vicinity turned out en masse on Monday, the 2nd July, celebrating the 1st July. The programme was 1-2 mile horse race, 1-4 mile horse race, pony race, slow race, trotting and farmers' horse race. Then came 100 yards race, 16 years and under; was strongly contested. Girls' race, 16 and under, little boys and girls race. Then the greatest amusement were: Potato race and pipe race. After the sports on the race course were finished the ladies and gentlemen moved over to the Toled school house and there kept up the fight fantastic till the wee small hours of the morn. About midnight Mr. Austin Glades had in preparation a bountiful supper at his place of residence which is only a few rods from the school house—only you may rest assured nobody neglected to take advantage of the good offer, which was first class in every respect.

The crops in parts are commencing to show the effects of too much rain. The Beaver lake is 5 feet higher than it was this time last year.

The Rev. James Atkinson, having just returned from a missionary tour to Egg Lake, Victoria and Lob Stiel, reports mosquitoes very bad and the roads in a very bad condition. Building operations have been retarded very much owing to the continual inclemency of the weather, and the mosquitoes being so numerous has hindered the ploughing considerably.

Some time ago we noticed that our M. L. A. secured an appropriation of $600, to be applied on the base line road to Edmonton. It will be much appreciated when the road is fixed which there is great need of at present as there are parts which it is impossible to get over with a light rig. If the $300 is applied as it should be it will put the road in good passable shape.

PARLIAMENT.

Ottawa, July 8th, 1920.

The debate on Mr. Flinn's prohibition resolution was resumed on Tuesday morning. The debate was lengthy and very little new matter was introduced. The propositions before the House were:

First—Mr. Flinn's motion in favor of a Dominion law to enforce prohibition in such provinces as might show their willingness to adopt it by a popular vote.

Second—Mr. McClure's amendment declaring for national prohibition.

Third—Mr. Parmelee's amendment to the amendment declaring against the present enactment of a prohibitory law.

Under the rules, these motions exhausted the possibility of alternative propositions, and also under the rules Mr. Parmelee's amendment to the amendment declaring against the enactment of prohibition was put first to the House, and being carried it displaced both Mr. McClure's amendment and Mr. Flinn's motion so that they were not actually voted on. The vote on Mr. Parmelee's amendment stood 98 for and 41 against. This amendment was supported by the premier, Hon. Sir Louis Davies, Hon. Mr. Fielding and Hon. Mr. Fisher, of the government. Mr. Craig, of East Durham, a leading conservative prohibitionist also voted for it.

Clark Wallace, conservative member for West York, announced his support of prohibition if accompanied with compensation to the liquor trade, and announced his intention of introducing an amendment providing for compensation, but did not do so.

After the vote on Mr. Parmelee's motion had been taken a new feature was introduced by Mr. Douglas, liberal member for East Assiniboia, who moved, seconded by Mr. McGregor, liberal for North Essex, that an addition be made to Mr. Parmelee's motion to the effect that it was expedient that the Canada Temperance Act be enlarged in its scope and the provisions for its administration perfected. It appears that although the carrying of the amendment to the amendment killed the amendment and the original motion it still remained possible under the rules to add to the amendment thus carried, which by being carried stood in the place of the original motion.

As the purport of this motion was in direct contradiction to the sentiment of the Parmelee motion it was vigorously challenged from both sides of the House and Mr. Douglas was called on to explain, which, however, he failed to do. Dr. McDonald, liberal of East Huron, who seemed to assume the paternity of the somewhat remarkable amendment, made the necessary explanation. McMullen, Casey and McClure, liberals, declared against the amendment in very strong terms, some of them going so far as to call it an insult to the intelligence of the House, with which idea Messrs. Craig and Foster, of the opposition, concurred. However, the premier, Sir Louis Davies and Mr. Flinn, mover of the original motion supported it.

A vote was taken and it was carried by 65 to 64 there being a considerable break in both sides of the House. Hon. Borden and Hon. Messrs. Blair and Fitzpatrick voted against the amendment, while the rest of the members of the cabinet present voted for it. Russell, liberal of Halifax, did not vote, considering himself to have been paired with his colleague from Halifax, who was absent, but when called on said that if he had voted he would have voted against the amendment. This would have made the vote a tie and it would then have depended upon the vote of the speaker. However, it was declared carried without reaching that point and Mr. Parmelee's motion stands amended accordingly. Of the Northwest members Messrs. Davis and Douglas voted for both Messrs. Parmelee's motion and Mr. Douglas's amendment and Mr. Oliver against them both. Mr. Davin was absent.

The motion of Mr. Parmelee as carried reads as follows:

"At the plebiscite of 1893 only about 23 per cent of the registered electors of the Dominion voted for prohibition. In the provinces and Territories excluding Quebec only 27 per cent of the registered electors voted for prohibition. These results show that there is not an active prohibition sentiment sufficiently pronounced to justify the expectation that a prohibition law could be successfully enforced, and that therefore in the opinion of this House such a prohibitory law should not be enacted at present."

To which the following was added on motion of Mr. Douglas:

"But inasmuch as it is desirable that legislation be enacted having in view the further restriction of the liquor traffic it is therefore expedient in the opinion of this House that the Canada Temperance Act be enlarged in its scope and the provisions of its administration perfected."

The objections urged against the amendment of Mr. Parmelee by the temperance men who voted against it were that it abandoned the principle of national or even provincial prohibition, and besides tended to give a false complexion to the meaning of the vote in favor of Mr. Parmelee's original amendment.

his motion not so much in the expectation of having it carried as for the purpose of putting on record the people's representatives on the subject of prohibition, believing that only by the election of representatives favorable to prohibition could a prohibitory law be reasonably expected to be passed or enforced.

Wednesday's session was taken up with miscellaneous business. A bill in connection with the salary of the judges in the Northwest, the Yukon and the province of Quebec was dealt with. The interest of the Northwest in this bill is in its provision for the appointment of one of the present five judges of the Northwest to the position of chief justice at an increase of $1,000 in salary. The present salary of the supreme court judges is $1,000 and the chief will get $5,000.

The opposition took occasion to discuss at considerable length a regulation which was brought into effect last fall permitting United States vessels to carry grain from Fort William to Eastern Canadian ports. This was done because of the report that there was a grain blockade likely to take place at Fort William and Canadian vessels engaged for lake trade were taking advantage of this to raise their rates beyond a reasonable point. The opposition complained very greatly that this was an infringement on the rights of Canadian lake transport, and would not consider the argument that as Canadian lake transport was trying to take undue advantage of the western grain trade it was necessary that strong action should be taken to prevent them from taking that trade by the throat. It was argued that the Canadian Atlantic railway stood to benefit greatly by the admission of the United States ships to lake trade. It was strange, however, that a course which was calculated to bring trade over a Canadian railway to the Canadian port of Montreal should be alluded to as an un-Canadian proposition by the opposition. It was surely better to allow United States vessels to carry grain from Fort William to Depot Harbor, the Georgian Bay terminus of the Canada Atlantic railway, than to have them convey it from Fort William to Buffalo, which could not be prevented and which was the only alternative condition which was being forced by the hoghishness of the Canadian lake carriers, and which was prevented by the government, of course to their loss.

to the gain of the western grain trade, the Canada Atlantic railway, the port of Montreal and the Atlantic lines doing business at that port. It is hard if the Canadian lake trade is to be allowed to play dog in the manger to all these other and more important Canadian interests. Of course it was special action but it was rendered necessary by the special circumstances of the blockade of grain late in the season, which may not occur again to such a degree in many years. Most people will agree that when any particular interest fancies that it has its hand on the throat of an important part of the commerce of the country, and prepares to take advantage of its position, it is a good time for the government to interfere.

The railway subsidy resolutions were laid on the table on Wednesday night. They aggregate $3,493,000, distributed by provinces. Ontario gets $1,212,400, Quebec $860,000, New Brunswick $464,000, Nova Scotia $401,600, Manitoba, the Northwest and British Columbia, $555,000. Of this latter amount $320,000 is a bonus for the further extension of the Canadian Northern railway towards Prince Albert, for a distance of 100 miles. When this bonus is earned the railway will be in the vicinity of Prince Albert, which is expected to occur in the fall of 1921. There is also $75,000 of the amount for 30 miles of the Alberta Railway and Coal Company's proposed line from the vicinity of Lethbridge towards Cardston. This is a narrow gauge line and the amount is at the rate of $2,500 a mile. Work is to be begun within two years from the first of October and completed within four years on all roads bonded, the usual conditions of running rights to other companies and the transportation of men, supplies and mails for the government in consideration of the bonus, is provided for.

Hon. Clifford Sifton returned from Europe on Monday and took his place in the House on Wednesday.

RAINY RIVER SCARE SUBSIDED
Indian Commissioner Laird of Winnipeg has wired the government that Inspector Leveque of Rat Portage has just returned from Big Grassy river, the scene of the reported rising in the Rainy river district, and that the Indians assembled there were leaving for their respective reserves. Agent Beggs of Fort Francis, also sent word that the Indians in that locality were returning home and everything is quiet there. Some stir was first caused among the Outways by the conduct of three Indians from Minnesota, who crossed the boundary and asked the residents to leave their reserves, stating that the Indians in that locality were being driven by fire from heaven. Any one perished by a cyclone. The American visitors were evidently religious fanatics, and at first their ravings had some effect, for a movement began towards Sabaskang Bay. Agent Beggs, however, warned them not to pay any attention to untruths told by Indians from the other side, and his warning and advice had a good effect and the Canadian aborigines quieted down. At one time 300 Indians from the Soo and Little Forks reserves passed Fort Francis in 80 canoes on their way to Manitoba. The presence of so many Indians alarmed the settlers, and they commenced to send their wives and children to Rat Portage and asked for arms. The mayor of Rat Portage on Saturday wired the department of militia urging the adoption of precautionary measures to guard against an outbreak. In response to this the deputy officer commanding at Winnipeg was instructed to have a force of troops ready in case of an emergency and co-operate with Indian Commissioner Laird. Reports from Fort Frances and Big Grassy river now are that the Indians are dispersing and there is no further cause for alarm.

A PIONEER MISSIONARY.

Saturday's edition of the Manitoba Free Press contained a photo engraving of Rev. A. McDonald, of Strathcona, who has been elected president of the Manitoba and Northwest Baptist convention, designating him as "the pioneer Baptist missionary of the West." In a report of the proceedings in connection with the opening of the Baptist national convention now in session in the city the same journal says:

"Rev. A. McDonald, Strathcona, president of the Manitoba and Northwest convention, then addressed the delegates (of the Congregational and Presbyterian churches, who had brought fraternal greetings), extending a welcome on behalf of the body of which he is the head. Mr. McDonald gave reminiscences of his arrival in this district over 27 years ago, when he came west as the pioneer missionary of the Baptist church in this province. When he came first there was only one man who was of the Baptist denomination. Not more than a stone's throw from where they now stood their first building was erected, and gradually their congregation, which was small indeed to begin with, grew. After a time they had a church, with a membership of seven, who had passed from death to life, and as the congregation grew, they formed an association. Indeed they formed an association when they had only four churches. That association was formed in 1882, and as they all knew, their numbers had grown very considerably since then. He was pleased to be there to offer the delegates a very hearty welcome to the free, pure, air of the prairie, and he was sure their visit would be fraught with the greatest good, not only to themselves but to the church at large."
